(b) specifying where copies of a draft of the wages order can be obtained; and

(c) inviting comments within a reasonable period on the draft wages order, which may not be less than thirty days from the publication of the notice.

(2) The notice specified under subsection (1) shall be published -

(a) in the Gazette; and

(b) at least twice, with an interval of at least seven but not more than fourteen days between each publication, in a newspaper with a wide circulation.

(3) Any person may submit written comments on a draft wages order within the specified period.

(4) A person who objects to any part of a draft order shall set out –

(a) the specific grounds of objection; and

(b) the deletions, additions or modifications proposed.

(5) If no objections are received, the Minister may publish a wages order in accordance with section 46.

(6) If objections are received, the Minister –

(a) shall refer the objections to the proposed wages order and any other comments submitted within the specified time period to the wages council for consideration; and

(b) may request the Board to consider and advice on the objections. 46. (1) The Minister may, after considering any further report of the wages council and any further advice from the Board, publish a wages order.

(2) A wages order shall be –

(a) published in the Gazette; and

(b) be laid before the National Assembly within twenty-one days of publication.

(3) On publishing a wages order, the Minister shall also publish notices in a newspaper in accordance with section 45 (2) (b) advising persons where a copy of the wages order can be obtained. 47. (1) A wages order shall –

(a) set minimum rates of remuneration;

(b) specify the matters in which an employer may make deductions from employee's wages and specify the maximum amount of deductions;

(c) specify the maximum amount which may be deducted from an employee's wages in respect of rations supplied by the employer;

(d) provide that an employer may only make a deduction in respect of rations supplied if authorised in writing by a labour officer;

(e) regulate task based work and piece work;

(f) regulate outwork, casual work and contract work;

(g) set minimum standards for sanitation for employees who reside on the premises of their employer; and

(h) regulate any other matter concerning remuneration or conditions of employment.

(3) A wages order may -

(a) make different provisions for different classes of employees; and

(b) contain provision for the amendment or revocation of previous wages orders.

48. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or any other written law -

(a) the minimum rates of remuneration or conditions of employment established in a wages order constitute a term of employment of any employee to whom the wages order apply and may not be varied by agreement;

(b) if the contract of an employee to whom a wages order applies provides for the payment of less remuneration than the statutory minimum remuneration, or does not provide for the conditions of employment prescribed in a wages regulation order or provides for less favourable conditions of employment, then the remuneration and conditions of employment established by the wages order shall be inserted in the contract in substitution for those terms.

(2) An employer who fails to -

(a) pay to an employee to whom a wages regulation order applies at least the statutory minimum remuneration; or

(b) provide an employee with the conditions of employment prescribed in the order, commits an offence.

(3) If an employer, is found guilty of an offence under subsection (2), the court may in addition to any other penalty order the employer to pay the employee the difference between the amount which ought to have been paid in terms of the wages order and the amount which was actually paid.

(4) Where proceedings are brought under subsection (2) in respect of an offence consisting of a failure to pay remuneration at the statutory minimum remuneration or to provide an employee with the conditions of employment prescribed in the order, then-

- (a) if an employer is found guilty of the offence, evidence may be given of any like contravention on the part of the employer in respect of any period during the twelve months immediately preceding the date of the offence; and
- (b) on proof of such contravention, the court may order the employer to pay the difference between the amount which ought to have been paid during that period to the employee by way of remuneration and the amount actually paid:

Provided that evidence shall not be given under paragraph (a) unless notice of intention to give such evidence has been served upon the employer together with the summons, warrant, information or complaint.

- (5) The powers given by this section for the recovery of sums due from an employer to an employee shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any right to recover such sums by civil proceedings:

Provided that no person shall be liable to pay twice in respect of the same cause of action.

49. Notwithstanding any provision of any written law, a labour officer may institute proceedings on behalf of and in the name of an employee for the recovery of a sum due from an employer to an employee by reason of the failure of the employer to -

- (a) pay to the employee the statutory minimum remuneration; or
- (b) provide an employee with the conditions of employment prescribed in the order.

50. (1) Any reference in this Part to remuneration shall be construed as a reference to the amount paid or to be paid in cash to the employee by his employer clear of any deductions, except any deduction lawfully made

- (a) for the purpose of a contribution to any provident fund or superannuation scheme;
- (b) in respect of rations supplied by an employer which the employer is permitted to make under a wages order;
- (c) under any provision of any other written law for the time being in force which provides for or permits deductions to be made from an employee's wages by the employer; or
- (d) at the request in writing of the employee, for any purpose in which the employer has no direct or indirect beneficial interest.

(2) Any reference in this Part to the statutory minimum remuneration means the minimum remuneration prescribed in a wages order. 51. For the purpose of calculating the amount due to an employee employed in any occupation in respect of which a wages order has been made, the employee shall be deemed to have been employed for all the time during which the employee was present on the premises of the employer if it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the employee was required to be present by the employer:

Provided that-

(a) an employee who resides on the premises of the employer shall not be deemed to be employed for any time during which the employee is present on the premises by reason only of the fact that he is so resident; and

(b) an employee while present during normal meal times in a room or place in which no work is being done shall be deemed to be present for a purpose not connected with his employment.

52. (1) Where an employee to whom a wages order applies is an apprentice or an indentured learner, his employer shall not receive directly or indirectly from him, on his behalf or on his account, any payment in the form of a premium:

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall apply to any payment made in pursuance of any instrument of apprenticeship if such payment is made -

- (i) not later than four weeks after the commencement of the apprenticeship; or
- (ii) at any time with the approval of a wages council.

(2) An employer who contravenes this section commits an offence and the court may, in addition to imposing a fine, order him to pay to the employee or other person by whom the payment was made the sum improperly received in the form of a premium.

53. (1) The employer of employees to whom a wages order applies shall -

(a) keep such records as are necessary to show whether or not the employer is complying with the wages order; and

(b) retain the records for at least three years after the date of the last entry therein.

(2) An employer shall -

(a) exhibit in the prescribed language and manner such notices as may be prescribed for the purpose of informing employees of any proposed wages order or wages order affecting them; and

(b) give notice in the prescribed manner, to the employees of any other matters as may be prescribed.

(3) An employer who contravenes this section commits an offence. 54. (1) Where the immediate employer of an employee is himself in the employment of another person and that employee is employed on the premises of that other person, that other person is for the purposes of this Part deemed to be the employer of that employee jointly with the immediate employer.

(2) Where an employer is charged with an offence under this Part, he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him and on giving to the prosecution not less than three days notice in writing of his intention, to have any other person to whose act or default he alleges that the offence in question was due, brought before the court at the time appointed for the hearing of the charge.

(3) If -

(a) after commission of the offence has been proved the employer proves that the offence was due to the Revision of the Laws Act An Act of Parliament to make provision for the contents of, and for revisions of, the Laws of Kenya and for matters connected therewith", Style[0])' onMouseOut='htm()'> the act or the default of that other person, that other person may be convicted of the offence; or

(b) the employer further proves that he has used all due diligence to ensure that he complied with the provisions of this Act, he shall be acquitted.

(4) Where an employer seeks to rely on the provisions of subsection (2) -

(a) the prosecution, as well as the person whom the employer claims to have committed the offence, shall have the right to cross-examine him if he gives evidence and to cross-examine any witnesses called by him in support of his case and to call rebutting evidence; and

(b) the court may make such order as it deems fit for the payment of costs by any party to the proceedings to any other party thereto.

(4) Where it appears to a labour officer that an offence has been committed in respect of which proceedings might be taken under this Part against an employer, and the officer is reasonably satisfied that the offence of which complaint is made was due to an act or default of another person and that the employer could establish a defence under subsections (2) and (3), the officer may cause proceedings to be taken against that other person without first causing proceedings to be taken against the employer; and in any such proceedings the defendant may be charged with and, on proof that the offence was due to his act or default, be convicted of the offence with which the employer might have been charged. 55. (1) The Director shall -

(a) keep a register of employment agencies which have been registered under this Act; and

(b) perform such other functions as are imposed or conferred upon the Director by this Act or any other written law.

(2) No person shall -

(a) carry out business as an employment agency; or

(b) charge or recover any payment in connection with the procurement of employment through an employment agency.

56. (1) An application for the registration of an employment agency shall be made to the Director in the prescribed form.

(2) Upon an application made to the Director as specified in subsection (1), and after consultation with the Board, the Director shall grant the application and issue a certificate of registration to the applicant if satisfied that -

(a) the applicant is qualified to own and manage an employment agency; and

(b) the premises where the employment agency will carry out its business are suitable for use as an employment agency.

(3) The Director may have regard to any other relevant matters in deciding whether the application should be granted.

(4) The Director may refuse to grant an application made under this Act and give reasons for his refusal.

(5) A certificate of registration shall specify -

(a) the name of the person to whom the certificate is issued;

- (b) the premises at which the business is to be conducted;
- (c) the period for which the certificate shall be in force;
- (d) the area, including any foreign country, in respect of which the business may be conducted;
- (e) the class or classes of person or employment in respect of which the business may be conducted; and
- (f) any conditions subject to which the business may be conducted.

(6) The Director may cancel the registration of an employment agency or vary the terms or conditions of any certificate of registration -

- (a) after due inquiry and for good cause, if the Director has notified the holder of the certificate of his intention to do so, and has given the holder the opportunity to make presentations to him, and has considered any representations which the holder has made; or
- (b) on the application of the holder of the certificate.

(7) Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Director made in the exercise of his functions under this section may appeal against such decision to the Industrial Court.

57. (1) Every person who operates or is in charge of an employment agency registered under this Act shall -

- (a) retain any record which, by regulations made under this Act, he is required to keep for a period of three years subsequent to the occurrence of the event recorded;
